

OLD VIRGINIA WINS

Georgetown's Sons Crushed on the Home Gridiron.

JOHNSON AND RANDOLPH STARS

Domination Captain Was Nearly a Team in Himself, and His Quarter Back Strongly Supported Orange and Blue Eleven—Game Is Keenly Fought—Crowd Cheers the Teams.

Battered, bruised, and crushed, but fighting to the end, Georgetown went down in noble defeat before Virginia yesterday by the score of 12 to 0.

It was the first meeting of the two football teams in five years. During a part of that period a feeling akin to hatred existed between the arch rivals for premier athletic honors in the South, but a vestige of enmity is still felt by the men of either university it was not in evidence at any time yesterday. The old wounds have been healed and cemented by the ties of good fellowship. Georgetown and Virginia battled for the glory of their respective alma maters and the palm of victory went to the men of the Old Dominion.

While the great game of five years ago, which was won by Georgetown in the last minute of play by 17 to 16, will remain as one of the most memorable battles in local gridiron annals, yesterday's contest will be remembered as among the hardest fought and most spectacular contests that it has been the good fortune of the football enthusiasts of this city to witness.

Fifty thousand spectators completely surrounded the field of play, and on either side were seated tier above tier of persons, which served as a fitting wedge to the friendly relations that once more exists between the two institutions. On the south stand were encamped hundreds of loyal Virginia supporters.

Virginia's Band of Rooters.

With 30 undergraduates from Charlottesville as a nucleus, the Virginians had an unusually well organized cheering section under one leader, who succeeded in drawing forth an almost continual volume of songs and cheers for the eleven men who had been selected to defend the Orange and Blue. On the other side of the field, in a stand just twice the size of the one on the east side, were grouped those who had come out to support the Blue and Gray. When Capt. Bockock led the Georgetown squad out on the field this stand was an eruption, and even when it was seen that the local team was doomed to defeat the cheering never lessened. Led by Capt. Smith, of the "varsity" baseball team, and assisted by the Cavalry Band, the Georgetown men gave their favorites royal support, and at the end of the game the cheering was still going on.

The proverbial never-say-die spirit never forsook the men in Blue and Gray, and in the very last second of play found the West Enders fighting desperately to force their way against Virginia's well-defended goal line.

As is usually the case in a spectacular game such as yesterday's, there were individual stars whose work far outshone that of the other players, and to two such players much of the credit of Virginia's fine victory must be awarded. These two men were Hammond Johnson, the captain and crack half back, and Oscar Randolph, the speedy little quarter back. This pair gained practically all of Virginia's ground, and each was fittingly rewarded for brilliant work by scoring the touchdowns that sent Georgetown's chances for the Southern championship tumbling. Both players had on all sorts of face formations, those two Orange and Blue jerseyed athletes skirted the ends and dodged through broken fields for gains of from one to fifty yards. Whenever it was necessary for Virginia to either gain or lose ground, it was to the credit of the ball was intrusted, and the distance was usually forthcoming.

Locals Played Well Together.

To mention the individual work of any particular Georgetown man would be to mention the work of the whole team. The whole eleven played well together and tried hard, but in two departments the game the locals showed peculiar weakness, and both were vital elements of the game—tackling and handling punts. Time and again the Virginia backs ended half the West End players before finally being brought down by a hard tackle, and the first touchdown was made after Randolph had wormed his way through the whole Georgetown team. The game was replete with punting, in which department Hodgson had a shade the better of Randolph, but seldom did the men in the back field handle the ball cleanly. Usually the ball came either to the runner or was so slow in getting under way that the Charlottesville ends were down and stopped the back with little or no gain. Fumbling, too, was costly to Bockock's team.

Both elevens put up a remarkably stiff defense, and the closer either team was driven to its goal line the more stubborn became the defense. In the first half Georgetown twice held the Orange and Blue back, and in the second half, while four times in the second half Georgetown started trips up the field for steady gains, but each time was forced to give up the ball when a touchdown was sighted.

In the first five minutes of play it appeared as though Georgetown would certainly score. Following the kick-off, Virginia kicked to midfield, where McLoughlin caught the ball. Virginia was penalized for holding, and on the first snap Dutcher gained 8 yards. Hodgson ripped through right tackle for 3, and between him and Boyle advanced 3 yards more. Dutcher plowed through the line for 4, and Boyle through the right side for 7. The ball now rested on the 15-yard line, and the Georgetown section was heading for a touchdown. The ball was passed to Kerr, and after ripping off 2 yards, he hurdled, and the home team was set back 15 yards.

Drop Kick Fails a Goal.

Bockock tried a goal from a drop kick, but the attempt resulted in a failure, and Capt. Johnson punted out of danger. Duty fumbled on Georgetown's 50-yard line, and a Virginia man fell on the ball. Johnson went flying around right end for 15 yards, and the Southerners negotiated a neat forward pass that carried the oval to the 12-yard line. On a double pass Johnson made 5 yards, but Georgetown's defense strengthened and Virginia was forced to pass over the piskin on the 7-yard line. Hodgson sent the ball spinning for 30 yards to Randolph, who booted it back to the 5-yard line. Hodgson punted, and a 50-yard run for a touchdown by Hammond Johnson for the winners. Both teams averaged 135 pounds.

Kentucky, 21; Tennessee, 0.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 10.—The University of Tennessee was defeated in today's game here by the University of Kentucky, 21 to 0.

across for the first score. Johnson received the punt out and kicked goal. Virginia, 6; Georgetown, 0.

Shortly after the next kick-off, Devine was injured, and when he left the field Georgetown lost one of her best backs. After an exchange of punts Dutcher was sent to the 40-yard line, and Johnson tried a goal from the 15-yard line. The kick was blocked. The half ended with Georgetown in possession of the ball on Virginia's 20-yard line.

Penalized for Hurdling.

Immediately after the next kick-off Georgetown started on another journey up the field. Using Boyle, Kane, Kerr, and Bockock, the ball was steadily advanced 25 yards to the 5-yard line. With 3 yards to go for a first down, Bockock made the distance, but was called back on account of hurdling, and Georgetown was penalized 15 yards. This was the second time that the 15-yard line had been interrupted by a penalty. Each team punted twice, and Georgetown started rushing on the 40-yard line. Twenty yards were gained through the line, but a forward pass was fumbled on the 25-yard line, and Virginia recovered. Johnson and Randolph gained, but Virginia forfeited the oval on Georgetown's 25-yard line. In a scramble following a blocked kick, Virginia recovered, and Johnson skirted left end for 25-yard run and a touchdown. A moment later the clever captain kicked a goal. Virginia, 12; Georgetown, 0.

With a defeat staring them in the face, the Georgetown players went at their opponents desperately and worked the ball to the 25-yard line. The forward pass was tried, but once more a fumble followed, and Virginia got the ball.

Receiving a punt out, following a touch-back, Georgetown was started for the much-wanted touchdown, and succeeded in getting to the 2-yard line, where Virginia put up a magnificent defense and recovered. Randolph punted 35 yards. On the first try Hodgson smashed through right tackle for 25 yards, and placed the ball on the 10-yard line, but time was called before another play could be started.

The Line-up.

Georgetown.	Position.	Virginia.
McLoughlin	left end	Meyers
Cullen	left tackle	Woods
Boyle	left guard	Woods
Buckley	center	Gloft
Hodgson	right guard	Spicer
Spencer	right tackle	Spencer
Kerr	right end	Madison
Kerr	quarter back	Randolph
Dutcher	full back	Johnson
O'Boyle	right half back	Stanford
Dutcher	left half back	Johnson
Johnson	full back	Johnson

Touchdown—Randolph. Goal from the field—Johnson. Goal from touchdown—Clark. Empire—Metzger, of Pennsylvania. Referee—Suter, of Princeton.

YALE MEETS A STUBBORN FOE

Brown Eleven Holds the Elis to a Single Touchdown.

Providence Boys Make Big Holes in New Haven Line, and Was Kept on Defense in Second Half.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 10.—The gridiron warriors of Old Eli have not this season met so stubborn a foe as that which they had in the Blue and Gray today, when the Brown eleven held them to a single touchdown and outplayed them at many points of the game. Score: Yale, 5; Brown, 0. It was largely Yale luck that prevented the Brown eleven from crossing the Yale goal line and scoring in the first half, and though once within 2 yards of the Brown goal, the Elis found their opponents standing like a rock, and could not gain an inch.

When the game opened Brown started off with a dash that looked ominous to the supporters of the Blue, who were gathered in large numbers with a band. The Providence boys plowed big holes in the Yale defense, and skipped around the Yale ends in aggravating form. Brown played the first half entirely in the Yale territory, and once had the ball on Yale's 20-yard line with a touchdown seeming almost a certainty, when a fumble of a forward pass gave the ball to Yale and spoiled the best chance of the visitors. The game was not without its spectacular features, not the least of which was a 70-yard run of little Knox, the Yale half back, through the entire Yale line, and a deer, and brought him down within a short distance of the Brown goal.

Yale played almost entirely on the defensive in the second half, and succeeded better in staving off the opponents. But so hard pressed were they that they tried few plays which were not in the category of old-fashioned football. The touchdown came after a few minutes of play. Yale carried the ball to the 13-yard line, where Morse and Knox, by successive plunges, carried it over for the only score. Knox missed a try for goal, which was made directly in front of the posts. The line-up:

Yale.

Position.	Player.
Left end	Payne
Left tackle	Kirby
Left guard	Westall
Center	Reckinger
Right guard	Taylor
Right tackle	Harvard
Right end	Alcott
Quarter back	Alcott
Full back	Alcott
Left half back	Alcott
Right half back	Alcott
Left half back	Alcott
Right half back	Alcott

Touchdown—Morse. Referee—Dr. Williams, of Pennsylvania. Empire—Dr. Charles, of Lafayette. Time of halves—Twenty-five minutes.

FOOTBALL SCORES.

Virginia, 12; Georgetown, 0.
Harvard, 5; Indiana, 0.
Pennsylvania, 0; Lafayette, 0.
Navy, 5; Swarthmore, 0.
Yale, 5; Brown, 0.
Princeton, 8; West Point, 0.
Syracuse, 4; Niagara, 0.
Colgate, 21; Hamilton, 16.
Lehigh, 27; University of New York, 11.
Minnesota, 4; Chicago, 2.
Columbia, 13; Philadelphia, 5; Central, of Washington, 0.
Dartmouth, 4; Amherst, 0.
Gettysburg, 18; Ursinus, 0.
Westleyan, 11; Williams, 0.
More, and Ballou punted 15 yards, but Central fumbled and Eberly fell on the ball on the 20-yard line. Then by straight line plunges, in which Ballou nearly always carried the ball, Philadelphia rushed the oval to Washington's 20-yard line, where Ballou narrowly missed a drop kick from field. During the remainder of the half there were frequent exchanges of punts between Ballou and Hamilton, the game ending with the ball near the middle of the field.

Line-up and Summary.

Washington.	Position.	Philadelphia.
McKee	left end	Rantz
McKee	left tackle	Rantz
McKee	left guard	Rantz
McKee	center	Rantz
McKee	right guard	Rantz
McKee	right tackle	Rantz
McKee	right end	Rantz
McKee	quarter back	Rantz
McKee	full back	Rantz
McKee	left half back	Rantz
McKee	right half back	Rantz

LOCAL SCHOOL LOSES

Central Beaten by Philadelphia Team, 5 to 0.

FORWARD PASS IS BIG FACTOR

Washington High School Eleven Failed to Execute Play Properly, and Haydock Recovered Ball and Ran Ninety-five Yards for Touchdown—Game Stubbornly Fought.

Central High School, of Philadelphia, yesterday afternoon defeated Central High School, of Washington, at American League Park, by the score of 5 to 0. The contest was as stubbornly fought as any seen in Washington for several years. At straight football the Philadelphians proved the best ground gainers, but by frequent punting by Big Cy MacDonald the locals managed to keep the ball in the Quakers' territory as long as it was forced into their own. The forward pass was used frequently, and in the early part of the second half the game was decided. In this half the locals started in like winners. After Burch, by a heavy run, had returned a kick from the middle of the field to Philadelphia's 25-yard line, line plunges by MacDonald and Burch advanced the ball to the 12-yard line. The Quakers then held for three downs and MacDonald and McKee attempted a forward pass. The ball was blocked by Haydock, who recovered the piskin, and ran ninety-five yards, with the entire local squad at his heels, for the only touchdown of the game. Ballou missed an easy goal.

Ballou, Balbirnie, and Haydock were the stars for the Philadelphia team, and MacDonald, Burch, Hamilton, and Balbirnie played best for Washington. Balbirnie and MacDonald were both taken out of the game. Balbirnie's shoulder was badly wrenched, and MacDonald had not been well for a week before the game, and could not start. The game was set by the visitors. Balbirnie, who was sent in at left end in the middle of the second half, prevented several gains by excellent tackling. But the real star of the game was Capt. Ballou, of Philadelphia. While at quarter back he ran his team well, and after replacing Balbirnie at full back, he repeatedly crashed through local line for gains ranging from 5 to 15 yards.

Washington had several excellent opportunities to win the game, but failed because of the lack of a sure kicker. The different times Capt. MacDonald attempted goals from field, and missed, were by a large margin. Ballou, too, tried a drop kick from the 25-yard line and narrowly missed adding four points to his team's total.

Local Team Begins Well.

Washington won the toss and elected to defend the south goal. Ballou kicked off to the 5-yard line, and the Quakers elected the piskin 10 yards. MacDonald went through the line for 3 yards, and Hamilton shot past tackle for 15 more. Burch and MacDonald could get only 5 yards between them on the next down, and MacDonald kicked out of bounds to the middle of the field. Trefe made 6 yards for Philadelphia, after which the Quakers lost the ball because a forward pass touched the ground. MacDonald then got past right end for a gain of 29 yards. The visiting line held and MacDonald attempted a goal from placement, which was blocked, and a Philadelphia recovered the ball on his own 25-yard line. An exchange of punts followed, and Philadelphia was again in possession of the oval on her 30-yard line. Ballou and Balbirnie each gained 5 yards, and then Kirk fumbled, Hamilton falling on the ball for Washington. MacDonald immediately rushed to the 10-yard line, and Philadelphia rushed the ball to the locals' 20-yard line, where they were held for downs. MacDonald punted 30 yards and Ballou was downed on the 50-yard line. Ballou and Hamilton the first down, but then the locals held.

MacDonald kicked into Philadelphia's territory, and after a short series of gains Ballou booted the leather 20 yards. Washington could not gain on the 25-yard line, but Ballou was thrown 15 yards from his goal. Ballou then boosted a high spiral punt, which Central fumbled, and which was recovered by Finkelstein for Philadelphia, on the 25-yard line. However, the ball was given to the locals because one of the visitors interfered with a free catch. MacDonald tried another goal from placement, which was blocked, but a team effort fell on Trefe. Hamilton made 10 yards, and then Washington lost the ball on a double pass. From the 20-yard line Ballou and Balbirnie carried the ball to the 45-yard line. Neither team could gain on the 45-yard line, and several exchanges of punts followed. The half ending with the ball in Philadelphia's possession on her own 35-yard line.

Quakers Make Touchdown.

The second half was begun by MacDonald kicking past Philadelphia's goal line. The ball was brought into the 25-yard line, and Ballou kicked to Burch, who returned 25 yards by a pretty run. The local backs then carried the ball to the 15-yard line, where Philadelphia held for downs. Ballou kicked to the 35-yard line, Burch making a fair catch. MacDonald tried a goal from placement, and again missed, Ballou getting the ball on the 10-yard line. The Quaker captain punted to the 40-yard line, and Burch again made a fair catch. MacDonald again attempted a goal and failed, Rantz getting the oval on the 20-yard line. Ballou made 5 yards through center, and the 25-yard line, and then a team effort fell on Trefe. Hamilton got past tackle for 15 yards, and then a forward pass brought the ball to Philadelphia's 12-yard line. MacDonald and McKee attempted another forward pass. It was blocked by Haydock, who recovered the ball and ran the length of the field for a touchdown. Ballou missed an easy goal. Score: Philadelphia Central, 5; Washington Central, 0.

MacDonald kicked up to the 5-yard line, and Ballou returned 15 yards. Kirk added 2 more, and Ballou punted 15 yards, but Central fumbled and Eberly fell on the ball on the 20-yard line. Then by straight line plunges, in which Ballou nearly always carried the ball, Philadelphia rushed the oval to Washington's 20-yard line, where Ballou narrowly missed a drop kick from field. During the remainder of the half there were frequent exchanges of punts between Ballou and Hamilton, the game ending with the ball near the middle of the field.

WASHINGTON BOYS LOSE.

Baltimore Country School Turns Table on Local Team.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 10.—Washington School for Boys was defeated at football here today by the Baltimore Country School, by 10 to 0, in the second game of three for a silver cup. The Washington lads had a desperate battle on their one-yard line in the first half, but held good, and it was not until the second half that the locals got busy with the scoring. The third game of the series will be played next Saturday, and is to be the rubber. The Washington lads won the first game. The line-up:

Country.

Position.	Player.
Left end	Paul
Left tackle	Levi
Left guard	Levi
Center	Levi
Right guard	Levi
Right tackle	Levi
Right end	Levi
Quarter back	Levi
Full back	Levi
Left half back	Levi
Right half back	Levi

CORNELL EASY WINNERS.

Holy Cross Was No Match for the Strong Ithacans.

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 10.—The fast Cornell eleven had a rather easy time of it defeating the Holy Cross outfit this afternoon, although in the early stages of the contest it looked as though the local eleven had "caught a tartar" that would be hard to handle. The locals, while playing listless football throughout the first half, managed to get in one touchdown, but failed to kick a goal. Another ball was blocked by Haydock, who recovered the piskin, and ran ninety-five yards, with the entire local squad at his heels, for the only touchdown of the game. Ballou missed an easy goal.

Local Football Schedules.

Georgetown.

November 17—Virginia Military Institute.
November 23—University of Maryland.
November 29—George Washington.

George Washington.

November 17—Virginia.
November 23—Georgetown.

Kendall Green.

November 17—Baltimore University.

High School League.

(American League Park.)
November 17—West Virginia Central.
November 23—Technical, postponed.

YALE FRESHMEN WIN.

Princeton First Year Men Outclassed in Defense and Kicking.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 10.—The Yale freshmen defeated Princeton here this afternoon by the score of 14 to 0. Yale outclassed Princeton in kicking and in defensive work, where additional weight gave superiority. The game was raggedly played throughout, fumbling and penalties for off-side play being prevalent.

Yale started the game with a rush and kept the ball within striking distance during the first half. Princeton held well with the ball on the 15-yard line, but field goals being kicked by Wheaton from the 15-yard line. In the second half Yale got the ball on a fumble and rushed it consistently toward the goal by end runs. Philbin kicked a quarter back, but the latter, and Solan was mowed from center to left tackle in place of Weeks. Philbin was sent in at center.

Mutes Play Well, But Lose

Mount Washington Defeats Gallaudet College Eleven, 27 to 0.

Although Outweighed, the Kendall Green Boys Put Up a Stubborn Resistance to Hard Line Plunges.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 10.—The strong eleven of the Mount Washington Athletic Club defeated the team of Gallaudet College at the club grounds today in a fast and hard-fought game, by the score of 27 to 0. The visitors, despite their handicap, lived up to their reputation for fast and aggressive football, and put up a stubborn resistance to the terrific line plunges of the locals, who outweighed them by about fifteen pounds to the man.

The game abounded in extremely clever trick plays by the Gallaudet men, and in hard, straight football on the part of Mount Washington.

The visitors were great, and one play in particular, the Gallaudet left tackle through the Mount Washington left tackle, gained many yards. They also worked the forward pass a number of times to perfection, as well as the short diagonal kick, and a large number of the other new plays that are the result of the revised rules.

The team work of the Mount Washington men was also splendid, both individually and as a whole. The line held magnificently, the ends got down the field under the kicks and downed the man who was trying to get the ball. The back field proved its title to the reputation of being one of the fastest, if not the fastest, in the State.

The work of Rider at full, both running kick punts and line plunges, was great. Baylors and Nelson, as the backs, did splendid work offensively, and Williams and Mealy, at the two ends, put up a splendid game. The Mount Washington interference was weak in form, Gallaudet the stars were O'Donnell, at quarter, and Sharp at left tackle. The work of Kutzler, at left half, and Shanklin, at right end, was good. The line-up and summary:

Mr. Wash.

Position.	Player.
Left end	Howe
Left tackle	Sharp
Left guard	Isaacson
Center	Bel
Right guard	Bel
Right tackle	Bel
Right end	Bel
Quarter back	Bel
Full back	Bel
Left half back	Bel
Right half back	Bel

TIGERS DEFEAT ARMY

Princeton Easily Downs West Point, 8 to 0.

WINNERS PLAY UNDER WRAPS

Could Have Won by Much Larger Score, Say Experts, but Held Out Fine Points for Big Test Against Yale—Harlan Kicks Two Field Goals—Details of the Play.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Princeton defeated the West Point cadets at football here today by a score of 8 to 0. The scores of the visitors were made from a drop kick and a goal from placement in the first half. The fact that Princeton did not score any more points in the remainder of the half, or during the second half, does not imply that the Tigers were unable to do so. It was clean, open football all the way, but to the experts, and there were hundreds of them around the gridiron, it looked as though Princeton was satisfied that she had the game cinched and did not wish to show her latrine strength and ability, holding out the fine points for the big test against Yale next Saturday.

The Army proved in its battle against Yale a week ago that it has a stone-wall defense, but Princeton found McCormick butted it like a battering ram. There were several casualties on both sides. In fact, more men were incapacitated than in any other two contests held here this season. Another thing that marred the first half of the game was rough work on both sides, which necessitated the expulsion of Weeks, of West Point, and Rulon-Miller, of Princeton. These two players came into a rather severe collision and were sent to their blankets for slugging.

Dillon Injured Twice.

The other men who were knocked out, but not expelled from the game, were E. Dillon, whose place the Tiger's quarter back was taken by Tenney, and Harlan, who was replaced by Cass at right half back by the New Jerseyites. Dillon was tackled heavily and thrown on his head near the middle of the field. There was a shout of "his neck's broken," but to the surprise of everybody Dillon was on his feet in a brief time and back in the game on the next play, seemingly unhurt. A minute later, however, he was tumbled in trying to go around the right end, and he lay helpless, and had to be removed to the gymnasium, where later on the surgeons said he would be all right in a day or so. When Weeks was put out of the game for slugging Rulon-Miller, Tibbott replaced the latter, and Solan was mowed from center to left tackle in place of Weeks. Philbin was sent in at center.

One of the surprises of the game was the knocking out of Pullen, who succeeded in the last half. Pullen, going in at right tackle for West Point in his place, Smith, at full back of the Army team, was replaced by Moore in the second half of the game.

Harlan's Goal from Field.

The soldiers, having won the toss, defended the goal, a fairly big northwest wind being in their favor. Rulon-Miller's first kick-off went over the goal line and Montford kicked from the Army's 25-yard line to the center of the field. Princeton failed on two tries at the line, and Harlan kicked to Montford on the Army's 5-yard line. Another punt by Montford was run back by Dillon to the Army's 20-yard line. There were two tries at center by Rulon-Miller, in which only three yards were made, and then the Army blocked a quarter back kick, but Princeton recovered the ball cleverly. On a quarter back run, Dillon carried the ball around the right end to the Army's 10-yard line, from which Harlan stepped back to the 25-yard line for a drop kick, and made a beautiful goal. Hoagland made a good snatch of a forward pass from the Army's 20-yard line, after ten minutes additional play, and carried it within five yards of the Army's goal. Then McCormick, at center, and Harlan, at right half back, in another rush, it looked as though Princeton had made a touchdown, but instead she was penalized fifteen yards for holding.

At this stage of the game, Smith was replaced by Moore at the Army's full back position, and the ball was kicked to Harlan, who heeled for a place kick on the Army's 45-yard line, at which distance he kicked a splendid goal from placement, making Princeton's score eight points. This ended the scoring.

The Army always had the reputation of fighting every minute of the way, and did their best today, but were plainly outclassed. The punting on both sides was good. Very little fumbling occurred and kicks and forward passes were well handled and played by the Army. It was seen that Princeton worked the forward pass and the Tiger quarter backs always had a double chance of a quarter back run when the play was made.

Line-up and Summary.

Princeton.

Position.	Player.
Left end	Harlan
Left tackle	Weeks
Left guard	Erwin
Center	Smith
Right guard	Smith
Right tackle	Smith
Right end	Smith
Quarter back	Smith
Full back	Smith
Left half back	Smith
Right half back	Smith

Y. M. C. A. 41; CORCORANS, 7.

Association Quint Plays Better Game of Basketball Than Soldiers.

Before a large crowd at the Y. M. C. A. Gymnasium, last night, the team representing the association defeated the Corcoran Cadets by the score of 41 to 7. The Y. M. C. A. took the lead after a few minutes' play, and were never in danger of losing.

Ludwig, Haigh, and Williams played an excellent game for the Y. M. C. A., while Hunter and Cassida did the best work for the Cadets, who were handicapped by the loss of their center and back. Line-up and summary:

Y. M. C. A.

Position.	Player.
Left forward	Hunter
Left guard	McChin
Center	McChin
Right guard	McChin
Right forward	McChin
Left half back	McChin
Right half back	McChin

Richmond College, 20; Roanoke, 0.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 10.—Richmond College played all around Roanoke College in this city this afternoon, defeating the visitors by a score of 20 to 0. Richmond College scored almost at will, and especially in the second half, when their opponents weakened perceptibly. Roanoke put up a pretty accurate game during the first half, holding the locals down to two touchdowns, and themselves succeeding in scoring.

BUCKNELL WINS FROM V. P. I.